

What is Timebanking?

Timebanking is a community program that allows the voluntary exchange of services between members. It is an online platform that helps to connect people who have something to offer with those who have a need and vice-versa.

In other words, you can give help to get the help you may need and vice versa. It is the exchange of skills and time. It is a type of share economy / community exchange.

There is no requirement on how much you can give or receive, however, it is hoped that if you receive a lot during a period of time, that at some point you try and give back, to ensure a healthy Timebanking community.

It's as simple as give an hour, receive an hour: by giving one hour of help to another member you earn one hour of time credits, which can be used to receive services that are of personal value such as dog walking, ironing, community gardening, massage, language tuition, painting, administrative assistance...you're only restricted by your imagination.

Timebanking helps you to meet people in your local community, make friends, get help that you need, help someone in need, and feel good giving to the community. Timebanking is a kind of 'informal' volunteering in your local community.

Everyone can be part of Timebanking because everyone has something to give.

What is a Timebanking community?

A community is a group of people living in the same place for Timebanking the community group you join will help you identify where you can place/post your "offers" or "needs". For example John Doe lives in Newcastle, so John has joined the Newcastle City community group.

What is an offer?

An "offer" is something that you could complete, or that you would find useful. It may be housework, it could be guitar lessons, or even reading to someone there are no limits!

What is a need?

A "need" is anything that you need help with from computer repairs, cleaning, driving, hospital visits, cooking lessons, umpiring, flat pack construction, pool cleaning, administrative assistance, working bees...the possibilities are endless!
